Building a global information assurance program Ph.D. Douglas E.Campbell

Intended for anyone interested in the construction and operation of an information assurance (IA) program, Building a Global Information Assurance Program describes the key building blocks of an IA development effort. It presents the authors' own proprietary process based on the systems development life cycle (SDLC) methodology specifically tailored for an IA program. This process is a structured, cradle-to-grave approach to IA program development, from program planning and design through implementation, support, and phase out. This text provides a proven series of steps and tasks that the reader can follow to build quality IA programs faster, at lower costs, and with less risk.
